

The
comprehensive list of the French text
messages
abbreviations.

by jadorelyon

The comprehensive list of the French text messages abbreviations.

12c4: un de ces quatre which means <<one of these days>>.

a+ or @+: A plus which means << see you>>, << see you later>>.

a12c4: à un de ces quatre. Which means <<see you one of these days>>.

a2m1: à demain which means <<see you tomorrow>>.

alp: à la prochaine which means <<see you>>.

ama: à mon avis which means <<in my opinion>>.

amha: à mon humble avis which means <<in my humble opinion>>.

ams: à mon sens which means <<as I understand it>>.

a tt: à tout à l'heure which stands for <<talk to you later, see you later>>.

auj: aujourd'hui, it means <<today>>.

asv: âge, sexe, ville. Used in instant messaging to <<ask the age, sex, and location>>.

b1: bien, phonetic short for <<good>>, <<well>>.

b1sur: bien sûr which stands for <<of course>>.

bcp: beaucoup which means <<very much>> , as in "merci bcp" (thanks a lot).

bjr: bonjour which is obviously <<good day>>.

biz: bises or bisous which means <<kisses>>.

bsr: bonsoir which is obviously <<good evening>>.

c1blag: c'est une blague meaning <<it's a joke, Just kidding>>.

c: c'est which means <<it is>>.

c-a-d: c'est-à-dire which means <<that is to say>>.

c ca: c ça: c'est ça which can mean anything from <<that's it>> and <<there you have it>> to <<there you go>>.

cc: coucou which means <<Hey/ hi!>>.

The comprehensive list of the French text messages abbreviations.

c or cé: sais (<< know>> form the verb "savoir). J c= je sais (I know), Tu c = tu sais (you know).

c cho: c'est chaud, literally <<it's hot>>, slang to say for instance you could hardly do something, for instance by lack of time, but you have a strong obligation to do it, or you have a very important thing to say, but it may be too hard to achieve it. "c'est chaud" = It would be really difficult!

chuis: je suis pronounced (shwee) which means <<I am>>.

com dab or kom dad: comme d'habitude, which means <<as usual>>.

cki?: on se connaît? which stands for <<Do I know you?>>.

cpg: c'est pas grave. It means <<it's no big deal/ not a problem>>.

ct: c'était which means <<it was>> or <<that was>>.

dac: d'accord which means <<ok>> or <<all right>>.

dqp: dès que possible which means <<as soon as possible (ASAP)>> ddd: demande de discussion which means <<request for discussion>>.

dsl: desolé which means << sorry>>.

entk: en tout cas which can mean <<in any case>> or <<anyways>>.

exprd: eplosé de rire and literally means <<exploding with laughter>>.

fds: fin de semaine meaning <<weekend>>.

fo: faut which means <<we must>>.

g: j'ai which means <<I have>>.It's an approximation, because normally the letter "g" and the word "j'ai" doesn't have the same sound, one is é, and one is è. Example: "g f1" = "j'ai faim", (I'm hungry.)

The comprehensive list of the French text messages abbreviations.

gt: j'étais which means <<I was>>.

id: idée which means <<idea>>.

je re: je reviens tout de suite which means <<I'll be right back>>.

j'y go: je dois partir. Which means <<got to go>>.

jms: jamais which means <<never>>.

jtm: je t'aime which obviously means <<I love you>>.

jsg: je suis génial which means <<I'm doing good>>. jc: Je sais which means <<I know>>.

kan or qd: quand which stands for <<when>>.

kdo: cadeau which stands for <<gift>>.

keske: qu'est-ce que which means <<what>>.

ke: que which means <<that>>.

koi, kwa: quoi which means <<what>>.

koid9: quoi de neuf? which stands for <<what's up?>>, because "new" (neuf) in French sound like "neuf" the number nine in French.

kom: comme which stands for <<how>>.

lut, lu: less common slang for "salut" meaning <<hi>>.

mci: merci. It means simply <<thanks>>.

msg: message which means <<message>>.

nn: non meaning <<no>>.

nrv: énervé which means <<angry>>.

ok1: aucun which means <<none, no one>>.

ouf: fou which means <<crazy>>.

pb: problème which means <<problem>>.

peh: pour être honnête meaning <<to be honest>>. Use this when stating your opinion or thoughts on a matter.

pk: pourquoi which means <<why>>.

The comprehensive list of the French text messages abbreviations.

ptdr: pété de rire and means <<you are laughing so much that you just can't laugh anymore>>.

pr toi: pour toi. It means <<for you>>.

qq1: équelqa'un. It means <<someone>>. It can be abbreviated as QQ1, QQN or QQUN. It just depends on the user.

qqc: quelque chose which means <<something>>.

raf: rien à faire, which means <<nothing to do>>.

ras: rien à signaler which means <<nothing to report>>.

re: rebonjour which means <<hello again>>.

rstp: réponds, s'il te plaît. Used to ask someone to text, <<please, reply back>>.

sa va: can be used as a question "sa va?" which means <<how are you?>>.

slt: salut which means <<Hello, hi>>.

snif: which means <<I am sad>>.

STP or SVP: s'il te/vous plait which is the informal/formal way to say <<please>>.

t1kiet: t'inquiètes!, meaning informally <<don't worry>>.

t or t'es: tu es which means <<you are>>.

texto: sms

tg: ta gueule which stands for <<shut up>>.

t1m: tout le monde which stands for <<everybody>>. In messaging: slt t1m = "salut tout le monde"= hello everybody tt: tout meaning <<all, everything>>.

v1: viens which stands for <<come>>.

vrt: vraiment which means <<really>>.

X moi: crois-moi which means <<believe me>>.

ya: il y a which means <<there is>>.